

Functional elements mapped to runtime processes

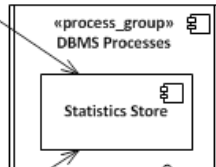

Stereotyped "active" component representing a process

Stereotyped class used to represent IPC mechanism

Relationships used to represent communication between processes (sometimes involving IPC mechanisms)

Stereotyped "active" component used to represent a group of processes to suppress unnecessary detail (e.g. DBMS internal processes)